ONE-OFF SERVICES

Change management

- Outsourcing the change management of your project has the distinct advantage of bringing neutrality to the change initiatives.
- We use the Prosci methodology on change strategy and enabling change resulting in the adoption of new behaviours and mindsets by individuals and teams .

Project management

- Some clients need help with one-off projects like a new website, brochure, promoting product launches or employee awards.
- Our expertise in marketing communications and our network of suppliers in graphic design, photography and printing makes us well placed to project manage all your communication activities.
- Our PR services will help you determine if you have a newsworthy story. We will work with you to write a media release, identify the best news outlet to distribute it to and maintain a clippings file for you to measure the success of the campaign.

Training and coaching

- Our communications training courses are tailored for every organisation, from one-on-one interview coaching for senior spokespeople to group courses. Our sessions are run by expert specialists with relevant experience.

WHY US?

We maintain a relentless focus on outcomes beyond cost reduction, with a proven track record of results.
